The Massachusetts Gaming Commission Continues Community Outreach
Efforts and Participation in Statewide Speaking Engagements

Gaming Chairman to Address Palmer Residents Regarding Licensing Process and MGC's Commitment to Introduce Responsible Expanded Gaming to the Commonwealth

Today the Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) announces the progress of an ongoing community outreach strategy designed to educate the public and provide communities with ongoing opportunity to participate in the process of regulating expanded gaming across the Commonwealth. Through the establishment of MGC's Speakers Bureau, the Commission is participating in numerous statewide speaking engagements to keep the public informed of the schedule and process, increase community awareness of the roles and responsibilities of the Commission, encourage community involvement and solicit valuable feedback to facilitate an all-inclusive, decision-making process.

Chairman Steve Crosby is scheduled to address the residents of Palmer, Massachusetts on Thursday, October 11, 2012 at 4:00pm at the Pathfinder Regional Vocational Technical High School, 240 Sykes Street, Palmer, MA. The topic will be revisions and updates to the licensing process for casinos in the Western Massachusetts region. Those anticipated to be in attendance include Quaboag Hills Chamber of Commerce President, Lenny Weake; Palmer Town Manager Charlie Blanchard; Pathfinder High School President, Mary Jane Rickerson and representatives from Citizens for Jobs and Growth in Palmer.

MGC Chairman Steve Crosby said, "The Commission is dedicated to identifying and participating in opportunities to educate the citizens of the Commonwealth on matters relative to the successful licensing and implementation of expanded gaming. We hope organizations will continue to utilize MGC's Speakers Bureau and other opportunities provided to share information, provide feedback and ultimately help inform and expedite decisions relevant to our work."

As the Commission strives to ensure that its decision-making and regulatory systems engender the confidence of the public and participants, the MGC Speakers Bureau provides an important face-to-face opportunity to communicate directly and facilitate a dialogue with MGC's vast constituency. The Speakers Bureau provides MGC with an opportunity to communicate its roles and responsibilities as well as the Commission's dedication to reducing to the maximum extent possible the potentially unintended consequences of expanded gaming. Advocacy meetings are not presently being scheduled, as they are anticipated for the process after formal applications have been submitted. To facilitate a Speakers Bureau request, the speaker request form is easily accessible on MGC's website.
